

SPECIES DIVERSITY

Any introduction of a new species in a new environment has the potential to impact biodiversity through changes in species richness and abundance. Changes to genetic and community structure could have ecosystem-level effects.