Sabías que hay más de 15 mil millones de páginas web?

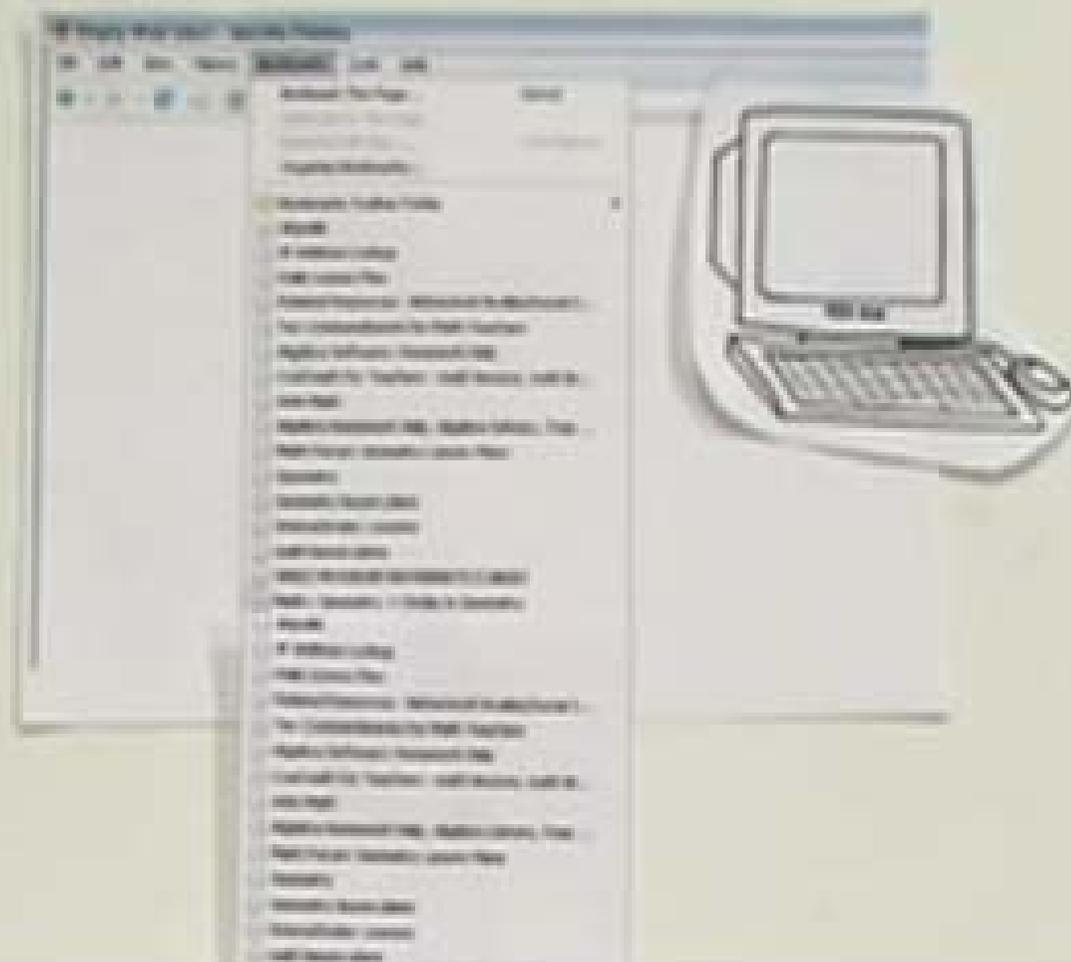

Para entenderlo necesitamos escoger las mejores páginas y guardarlas para después.

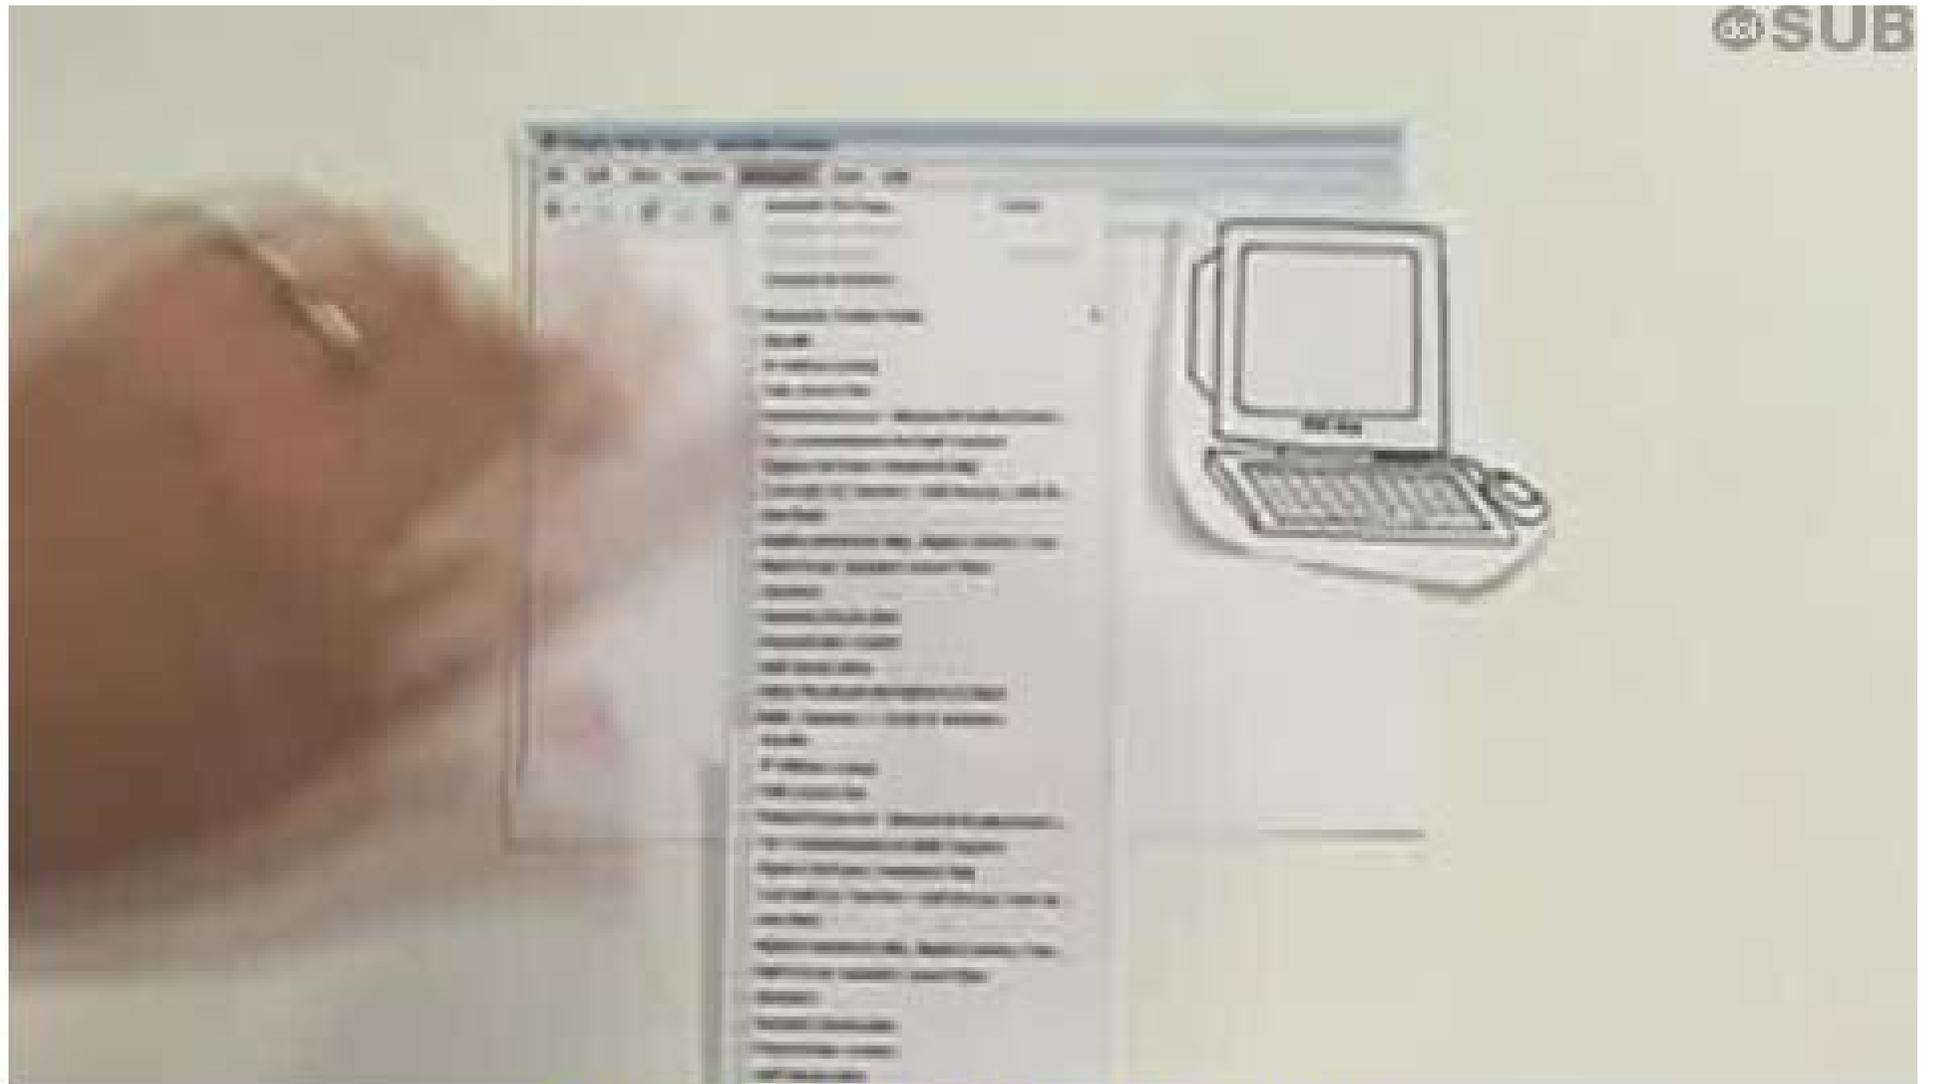

Tenemos posibilidades. Podemos marcarlas o agregarlas a los favoritos en el browser.

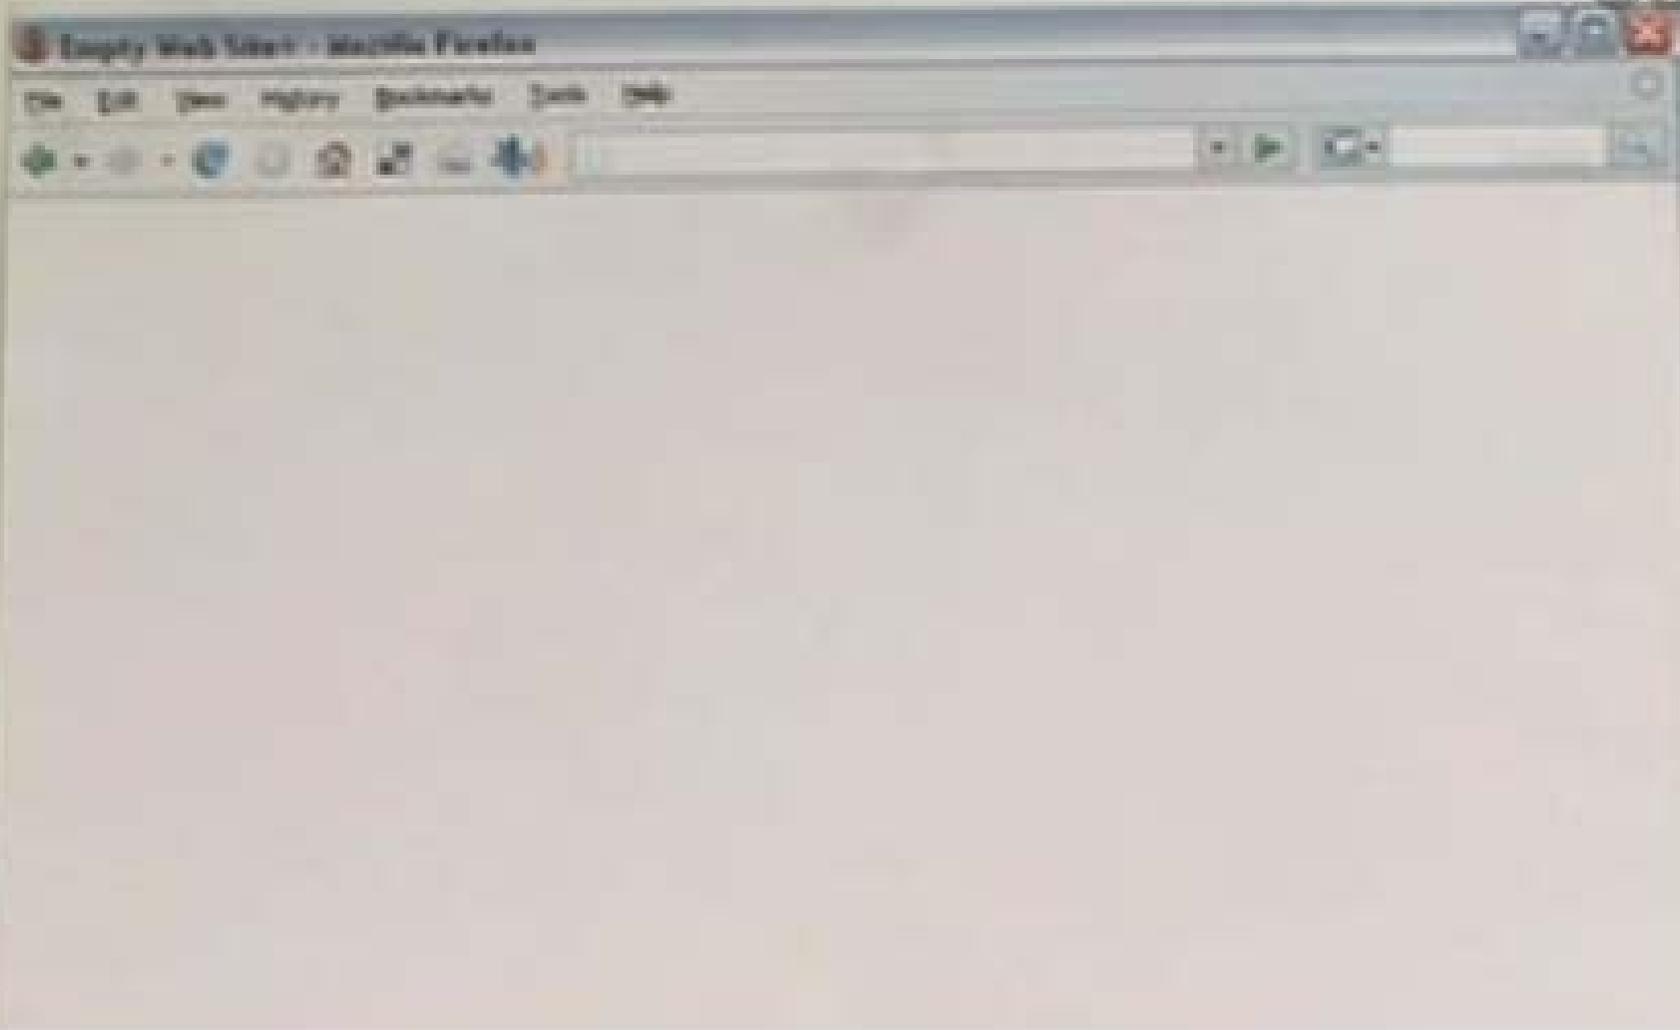

No... esto rápidamente es un problema mayor.

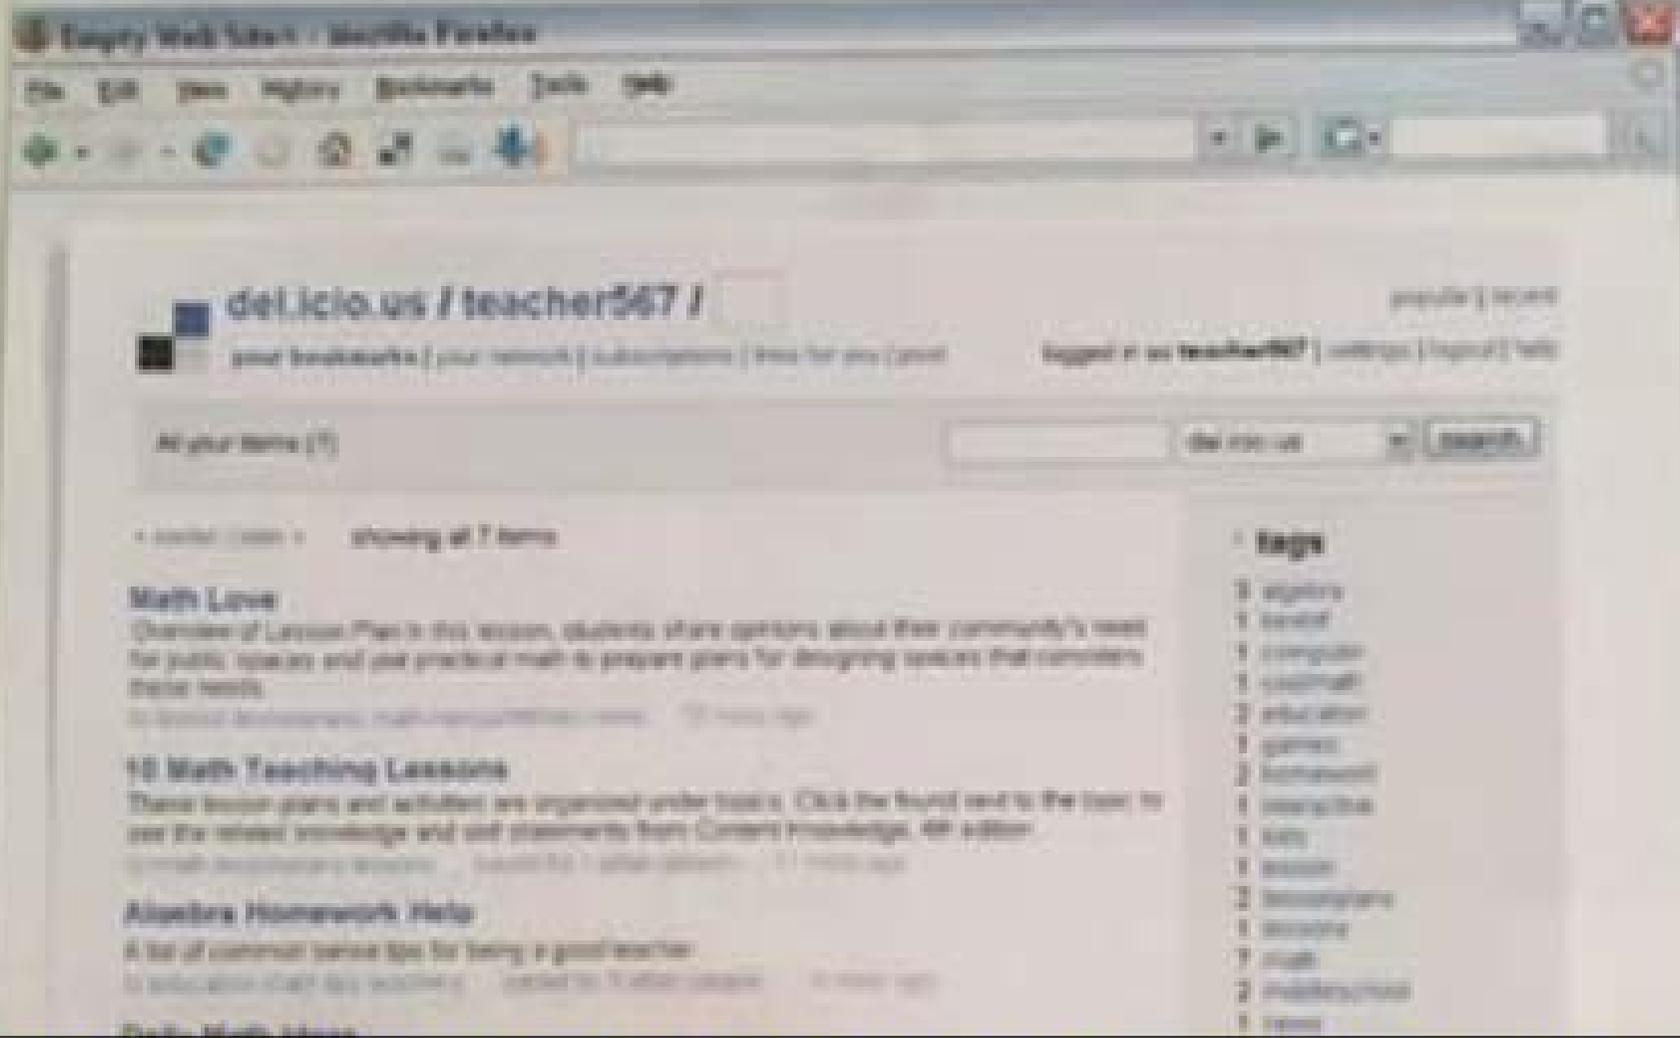

Además, estos marcadores están atados a un computador

Esa es la manera antigua.

Hay una nueva forma que no usa un browser, sino un sitio web.

Se le llama un sitio de favoritos sociales y el que usaremos hoy es Delicious.

Social Bookmarking

Hace que el mercado de páginas más entretenido.

Sólo repite este proceso por cada sitio que quieres guardar. Esto es el marcado.

Avancemos dos meses para explicar un segundo tema:

Por qué las etiquetas son importantes.

Pero eso es sólo una parte de la diversión.

Ahora, veamos la parte social del mercado para mostrar nuestro tercer tema.

Piensa en tus colegas profesores.

Podrian beneficiarse ellos de ver tus favoritos?

De hecho, pueden. Los favoritos de delicious son públicos.

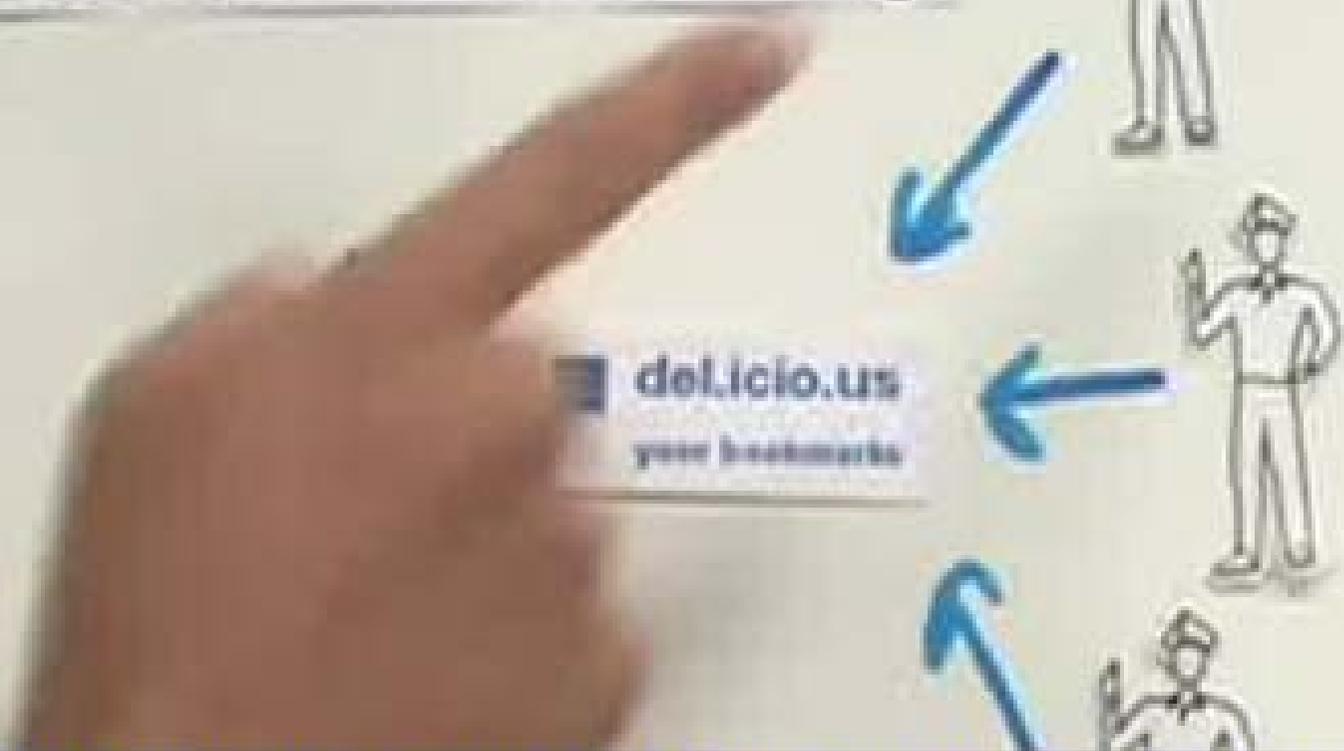

Esto significa que tus amigos y colegas pueden ver tus favoritos y usar tus etiquetas tal como tú.

Por eso se le llama marcado social.

Social Bookmarking

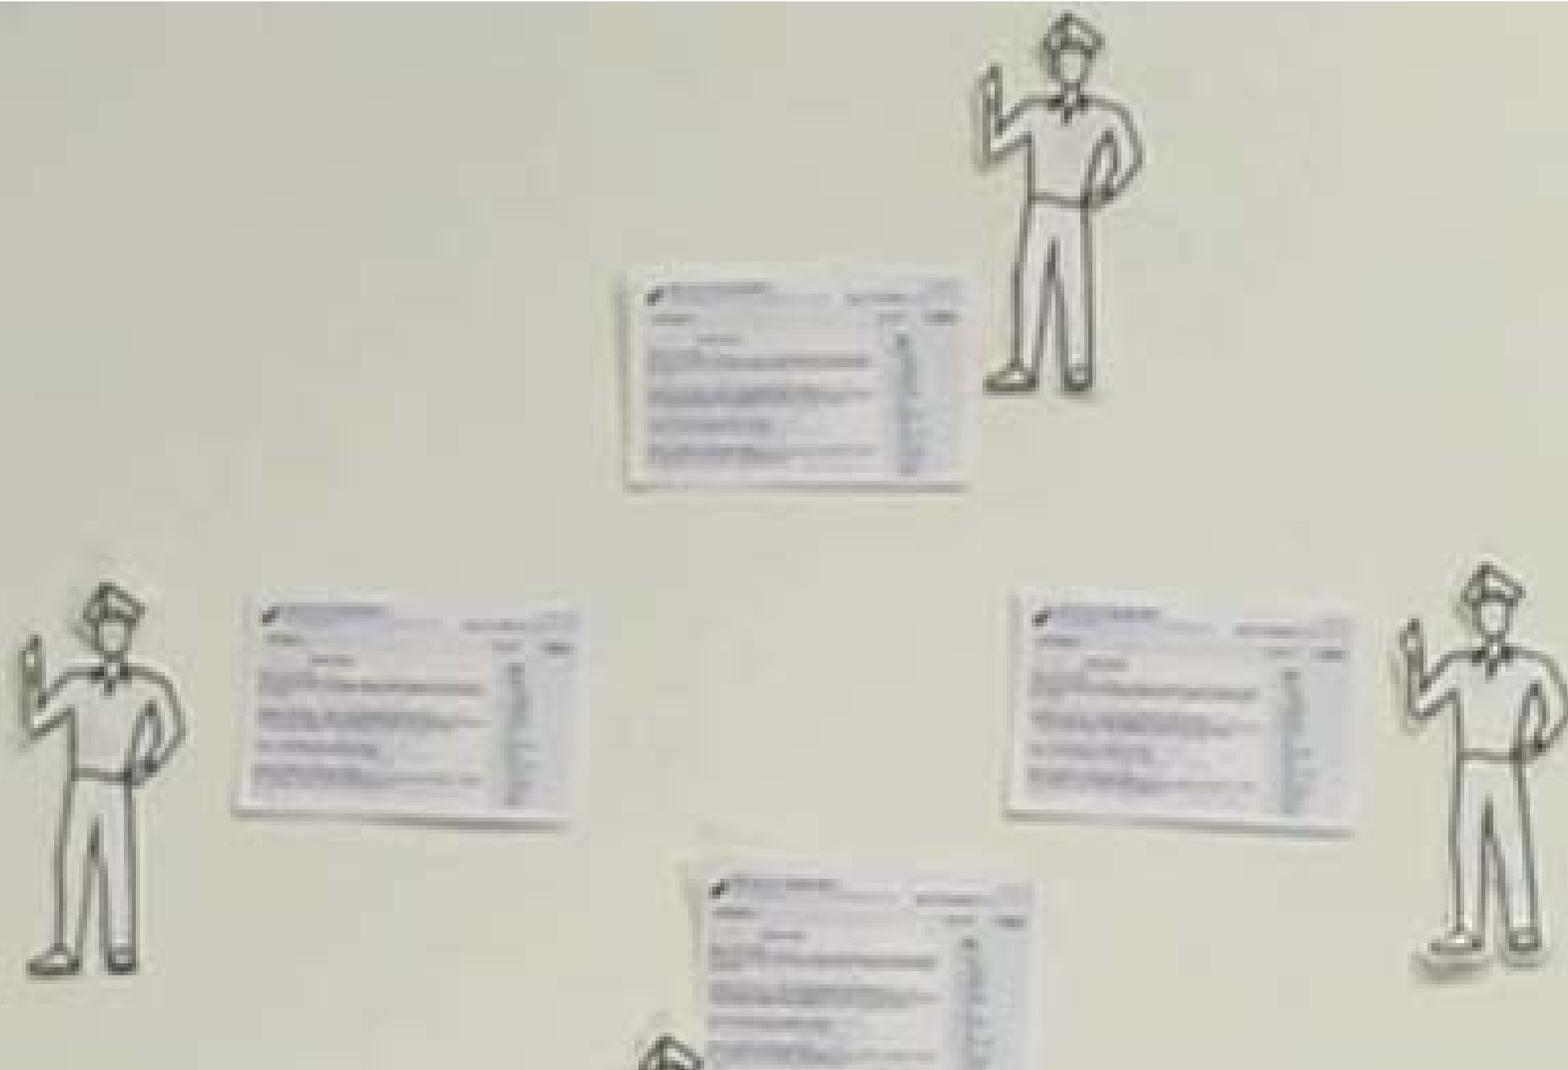

Tus favoritos pueden beneficiar a otras personas.

Miralo de esta manera.

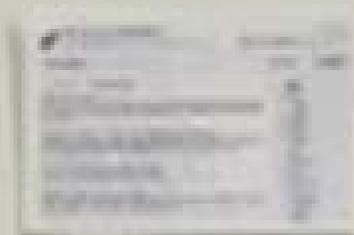

Tú comienzas a marcar sitios de álgebra y tus colegas pueden ver los sitios interesantes que encuentraste.

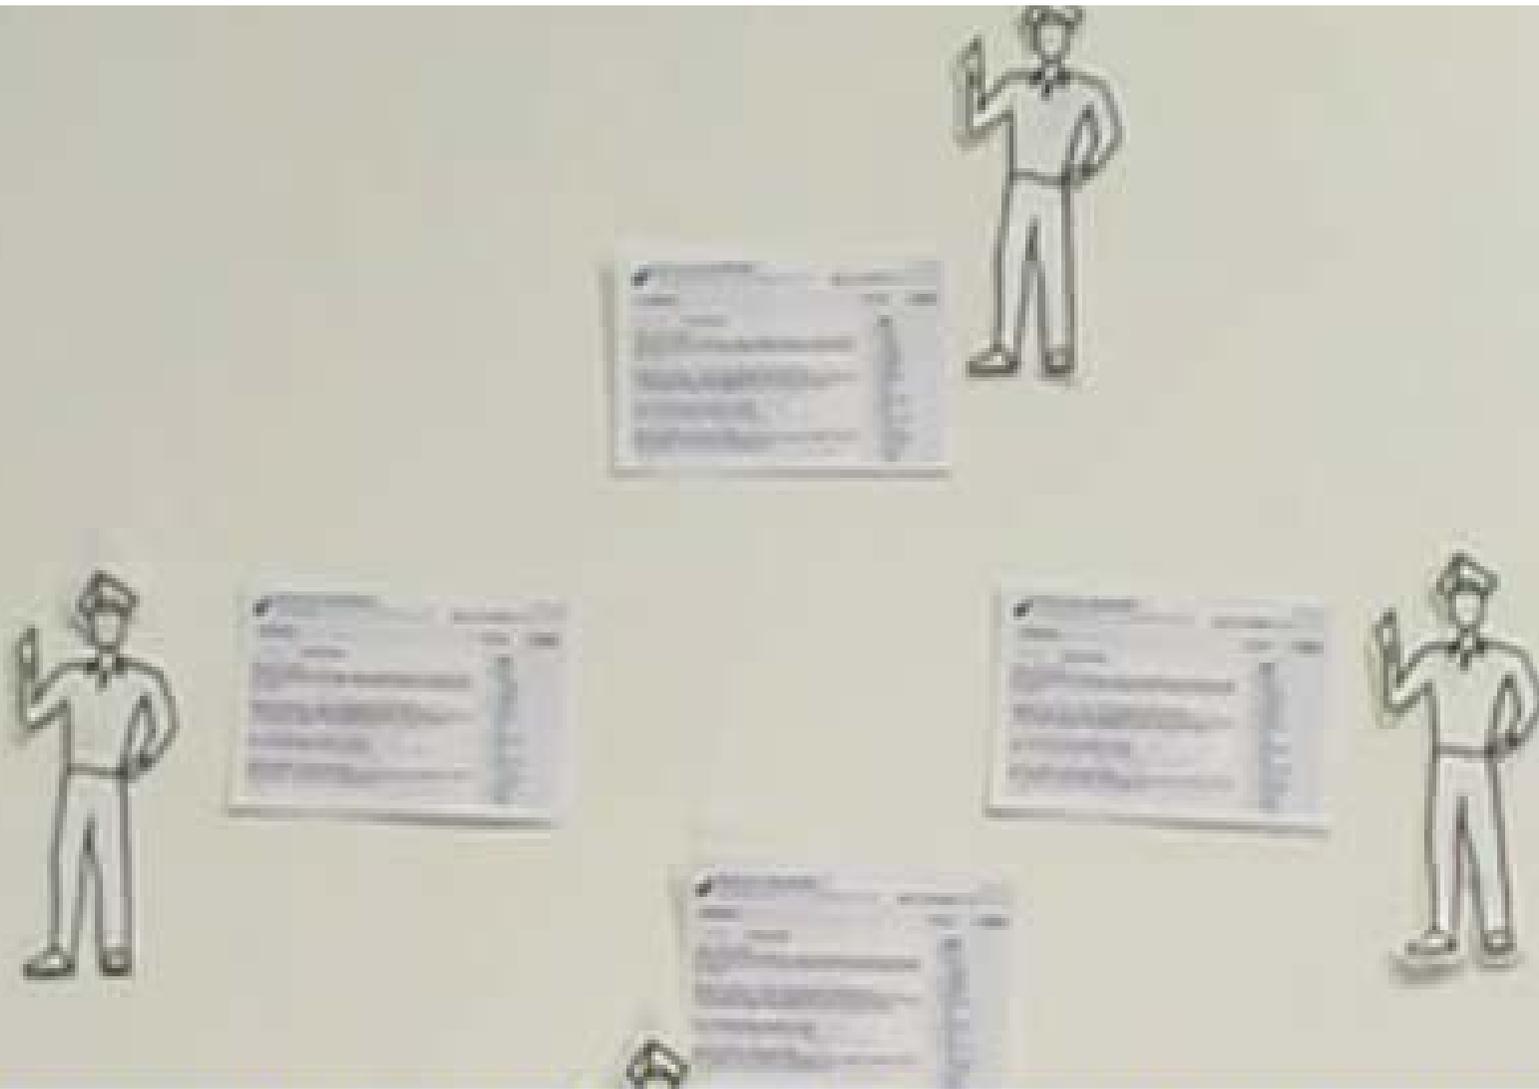

Luego, ellos comienzan a marcar sitios también.

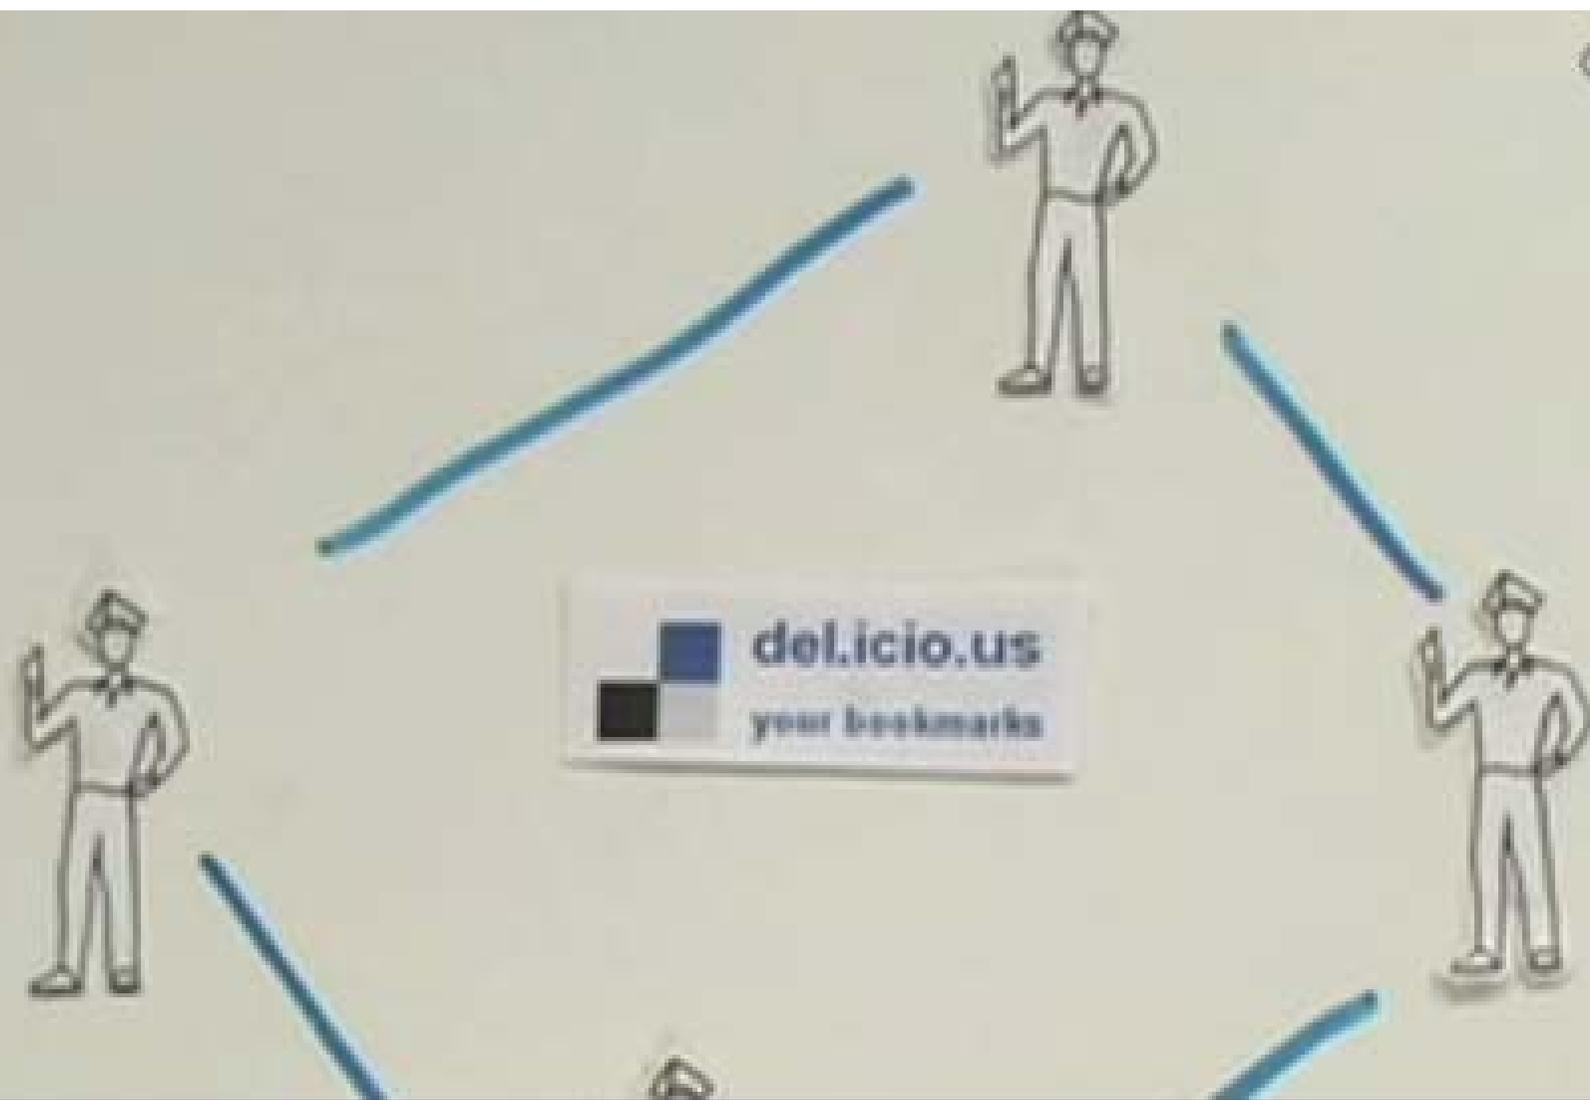

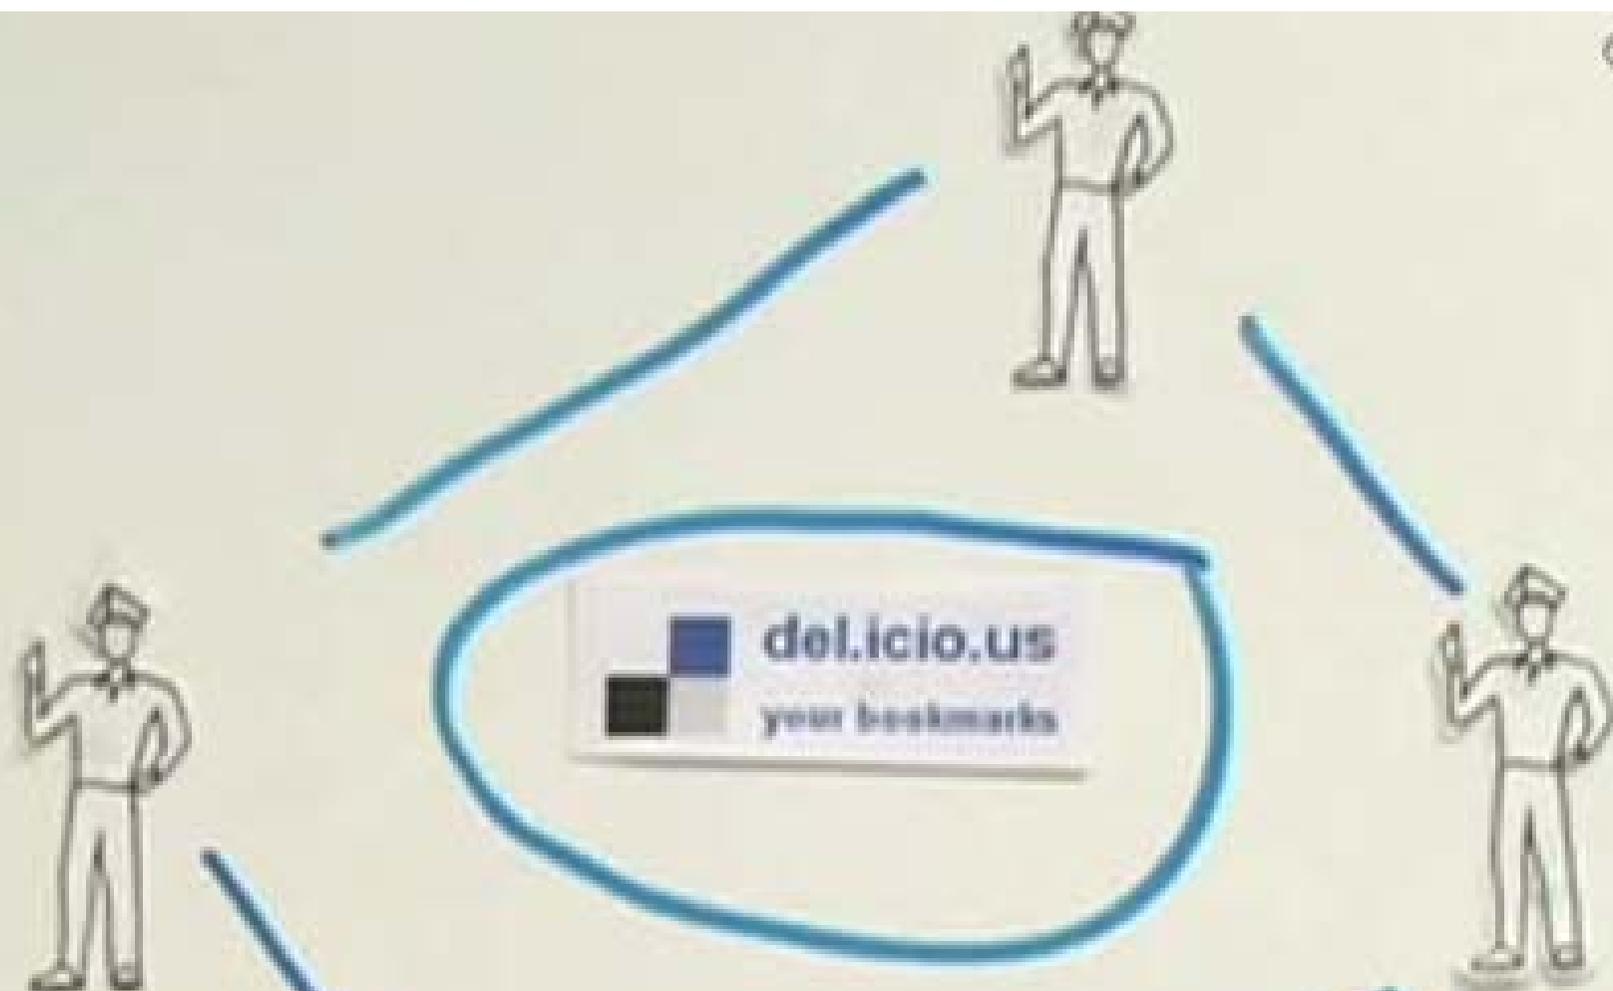

Dentro de unas semanas, un grupo de profesores ha marcado sus sitios favoritos de matemáticas, y como todos son públicos, cada uno descubre material nuevo y relevante.

Juntos crean una red que produce un flujo constante de sitios web interesantes y útiles, todos organizados con etiquetas en el sitio delicious.
